All money raised will benefit our chosen philanthropies – Homeboy Industries and 2nd Call

SCDF is proud to continue its no-cost programming that addresses how the AEC industry can be a change agent for social justice and equitable development. This educational series addresses the obvious inequities facing our nation today, but focuses the conversation on what we can do locally – across Southern California – to advance awareness on systemic racism and injustice in our communities. Our panel is comprised of four local non-profit organizations SCDF has contributed to: Homeboy Industries, 2nd Call, LA Mas and ACE Mentor Program. These organizations are each working to create more equitable, prosperous and healthy communities. Learn from the efforts of these organizations – to enact and support positive change within your organization and the development community at-large.
